Israel’s Dangerous Neighborhood

By George Will
Columnist for the WASHINGTON POST

On one day Palestinian violence is said to have been provoked by the opening of a tunnel. On another day the provocation is said to be the beginning of construction of apartments.

Israel medical team carries a suicide bombing victim to the hospital.

But the real reasons for the violence are: Violence has always been a part of the warp and woof of Yasser Arafat’s politics (remember, he once wore a pistol to the U.N. podium), and there is no penalty for it.

Indeed, in the eyes of the “international community,” Palestinian violence is self-legitimizing: It is proof of Israeli provocation.

No Israeli government could allow Arafat to veto the construction of apartments on unoccupied land in East Jerusalem owned by the Israeli state. To allow that would be to make a de facto territorial concession, conceding that Jerusalem is redivided, with Arafat sovereign in part of it.

Arafat released terrorists. Israeli intelligence says he authorized attacks and that the head of the Palestinian Preventive Security organized the Hebron riots. Last Friday, at a rally of 10,000 in Nablus, a speaker announced the “good news” of the terrorist’s suicide attack in Tel Aviv, and the crowd cried “God is great.” An Arafat aide said, “The terror of bulldozers led to the terror of explosives.”

Arafat’s recurring resort to violence refutes the premise of the Oslo accords, which was that land was being traded for peace. Something tangible — territory — has indeed been traded for something intangible — promises, a liar’s promises.

Everything about Arafat’s repertoire — the violence, the rhetoric to Arabic-speaking audiences about “combat” and “jihad” and capturing all of Jerusalem, the refusal to fulfill the obligation to remove from the Palestinian Charter references to the illegitimacy and destruction of Israel — is consistent with the strategy adopted in 1974.

That is the “phased” strategy of founding a Palestinian state from which will be launched the final attack on a diminished Israel.

American diplomats who soothingly refer to Arafat as Israel’s “partner in the peace process” visit Arafat’s Ramallah office with its wall map of Palestine with Israel’s borders erased.

Such maps are frequent ornaments of political and cultural programming on Palestinian Authority television. Such maps are used in Palestinian commercial advertising and as jewelry. On the main Bethlehem-Hebron road there is a monument

It's Time to Visit Israel

By Thomas Ice

Excerpt from Pre-Trib Perspectives

Contrary to popular opinion, it is safe for Americans to travel and tour the Holy Land inasmuch as the current problems are primarily limited to areas where tourists rarely go. We were as safe as one can be on this planet. In fact, I have been told that not one single American tourist has ever been killed in the whole history of modern Israel. Because of the false perception that it is dangerous to travel in Israel, we had the whole land almost to ourselves. That was nice, in a way. But it was not nice to realize that many who would like to visit the place where our Savior walked, lived, died, rose again, and ascended to heaven are staying away because they think it is not safe. Many who would benefit from seeing the sites where dozens of future events are prophesized to occur are not coming because of the false notion that their life may be endangered and are choosing to stay at home. ■

Itamar Marcus, who has appeared on our program, is a Palestinian media watcher. He is presently occupied with the problem of Palestinian Authority radio and television inciting their people to hatred and violence against the Israelis. The Oslo peace process specifically requires the PA to stop all such incitement.

Palestinian Affairs

Excerpts from The Jerusalem Post

... After all, for Marcus, the answer to whether or not the incitement has stopped can never be a simple yes or no. The blatant “bursts” of incitement — the video clips glorified martyrdom, along with hours of bloody intifada broadcasts — may indeed be petering out. But what remains, he says, is a subtler and, long-term, more worrying form of incitement whose damage will take years to repair.

Marcus finds little to be complacent about in the “normal” programming either. He has come to the conclusion that the problem lies not so much in the blatant calls to violence which come and go, but in a more deeply entrenched process of indoctrination that he perceives as being fed to Palestinians throughout the official media.

The underlying ideology being peddled by the PA media (he claims) paints Israel as an illegitimate foreign implant in the region, and as a temporary entity that will one day disappear. Historians and Islamic clerics who have regular slots on PA TV continually convey the message that the Jews have no history in Israel. One “house” ideologue and historian, Abdallah al-Hourani, recently described Israel as “like a tree planted on someone else’s land that won’t take root.” When the tree stops getting “fertilizer,” he went on, apparently referring to foreign aid, “it will wither and die.”

“The first pillar of the ideology is that the Jews were never here, absurd as it may sound,” says Marcus. “One historian stated that not a single ancient Hebrew coin had ever been found here.” [Our tourists find them constantly, not only in the ground, but in every jewelry store. — Zola] Even in newspaper crossword puzzles, Marcus argues, the line between Israel and historic Palestine is continually erased. The clues for Jaffa and Haifa, for example, are always “a Palestinian port.” This, he says, is “what people are growing up on. And this is the tragedy.”

Ironically, Marcus rejects the calls by Israeli right-wingers for the army to bomb the PA’s TV and radio transmitters into the world to come. Israel’s first helicopter gun-ship raid in the PA territories following the October lynching of two army reservists in Ramallah targeted the radio, putting VOP briefly out of action.

“I say no way,” says Marcus. “It’s such a controlled media that it gives us a valuable window into what’s going on. I’m waiting for the day when I can report that the Palestinian TV says they’re hoping for peace with Israel”

In the meantime, states Marcus, the deep-level incitement he perceives is “not a light switch to be turned on and off.” Palestinians have been exposed, he says, to years of ideology that “the Jews have no right to be here, and are not going to be here. And we’ll be paying for that for years to come.” ■

World Vision Lacks Insight

One of our subscribers wanted to sponsor an Israeli child's financial assistance through World Vision. When her package arrived, she learned that they had assigned her a Palestinian child in the West Bank. She objected, saying that she did not want to sponsor a child who was being raised to hate Israeli Jews. World Vision responded that some of the Palestinian children were "Christian Arabs" but would not guarantee they could find her one. Bottom line: World Vision offers no support to non-Palestinian children, though some Israeli children are Christians, of course!

50 Booklets, $49 – Mix & Match!

For the first time in our twenty-year history you can select any combination of fifty of our $3 study booklets and, so long as you order fifty, share a tremendous value with your friends. # A Note From Zola

Dear Friends,

A great many of you have written in to tell us that our newest airtimes are inconvenient for you. We certainly know that. They're inconvenient for us, too.

Please know that we do not choose these airtimes, but simply take the best that is offered to us. Neither the FOX network, which is secular, nor TBN, which is Christian, values our program very much, and therefore we have a bad choice of times. Obviously, if we could be in primetime we would do that, but frankly, even if we had the money for a very expensive time like that, they probably wouldn't sell it to us. The fact is, our two major emphases, the Bible and Israel, are not very popular these days.

This is to be expected in the End Times. After all, our Lord said to his Israeli disciples, "Ye shall be hated of all nations." And the Bible is becoming a rarity these days, even in churches and seminaries. On Christian television, it's really hard to find serious Bible teaching.

Make no mistake about it, television works like any other business, and the popularity of a subject decides its prominence in the lineup. If you look at the tripe that the networks serve up in primetime, I'm afraid you have a good example of where the unbelieving world's tastes lie. And if you look at primetime on religious channels, there is the same appeal to the largest crowd, rather than a serious quest for Scriptural truth.

My purpose here is to tell you that we have to fight tooth-and-nail for even the bad times that we're getting, and for that reason we offer you videotapes, computerized showings of our program, etc.

On the FOX family channel, which is a totally secular network, you have to give credit for the fact that they've kept our program, even after other Christian programs were taken off. Competing in a program lineup where infomercials, movies, and the like bring quite a bit of commercial revenue to the network, Zola Levitt Presents is still considered valuable enough to be shown, even if the airtime is inconvenient. There's something to be said for our production values and the relevance, even to unbelievers, of what we are saying.

Commentary that is positive about Israel is welcome almost nowhere but in Israel itself these days. Precious few newspapers and television broadcasts are ever complimentary to this sister democracy, and our program must seem very odd indeed when we hold Israel blameless in the present situation, even as we have all along. What is relevant to us is not the world's criticism or the Palestinian animosity or even general anti-Semitism, but the mere fact that the Chosen People are back in the Promised Land, and now End Times prophecy can happen. That, frankly, is the most important fact to any believer (or unbeliever) in the world today.

I've grown totally weary of having to repeat that Israel is safe for pilgrims. We have had three totally peaceful tours, absolutely routine and the same as the 67 before them over the past 30 years, during this present unrest. Obviously the problems are localized in Palestinian areas, which we don't even go close to in our tours of Biblical sites. Despite your many letters to the contrary, I'm still here telling you that I have been an eyewitness to the fact that Israel is perfectly peaceful, probably more peaceful than your town or mine.

To that end, in place of our usual tour paragraph, here is my wife's impression of the tour she led June 5th - 15th:

The Kibbutz tour is a dream come true. Zola and I felt that if we could get parents and children along with teachers and students to go to Israel, they would fall in love with the country and their Bibles would come to life. What a wonderful foundation for children that would be.

With that dream in mind, we started the Kibbutz tours in the summer. The group this summer consisted of a family with four children, a mother and daughter, a mother and son, two sisters, several single people, a youth minister and his wife, two Community Bible Study leaders and an 88-year-young lady—a total of 24.

"...the Bible and Israel, are not very popular these days."

This group was special right from the start. We all met in Newark for our flight to Israel and we bonded right away. This was a lively group and one that definitely loved the Lord. As we landed in Tel Aviv we all clapped. We were so glad to be in the land of our Lord!

The Coming Quake

Israel Today

A Knesset committee has asked the government to create a commission to prepare for earthquakes. Committee members called for implementing the recommendations of geological experts, such as changing the building codes and reinforcing buildings in high-risk areas. Based on today's standards of construction, experts predict that a strong earthquake could result in 5,000 to 10,000 deaths and 20,000 injuries, as well as catastrophic damage to buildings and infrastructure.

And ye shall flee to the valley of the mountains; for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee, like as ye fled as from before the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: and the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with thee." ■

Tales from the Arabian Nights – Recent Egyptian study "Reveals" Western Wall not Jewish

Arabicnews.com

An Egyptian study uncovered that the western wall of Al-Harem Al-Sharif is the Buraq Wall, not the Wailing as the Jews allege to justify establishment of their state in Palestine.

Contained in a book issued recently by the Ain Shams University's Middle East Research Center, the study says 95% of Jews are not Israelites but rather foreigners of mixed races as referred to by British anthropologist James Fenton's 1966 paper.

It is illogical that there are any antiquities belonging to Prophets beneath Al-Aqsa Mosque, said the study, noting that Al Aqsa Mosque was built 2,000 years before Prophet Solomon and remained so until this day.

Prophets act according to heavenly revelations and hence it is unacceptable to claim that one Prophet had destroyed a place built by another before him in order to build a temple.

Resolutions of the international Shaw Committee, issued in the aftermath of the Buraq Intifada in 1928 under the Swedish Foreign Minister then, pointed out that no traces of stones remaining from the Temple of Solomon were found in the Western Wall.

Surprisingly enough, the Jews did not claim possession of this wall as all that they demanded is the recognition of their rights to have access to the wall to pray before it according to their rituals, added the study. ■

Presbyterians Ask: Is Belief in Jesus Necessary?

Dallas Morning News, Religion Section

The General Assembly [is] the annual gathering of the governing body of the Presbyterian Church (USA).

Over the next week, the denomination will consider proposals on issues such as domestic violence, campus ministry and whether belief in Jesus is necessary for salvation.

An answer to the article excerpted above was published a few days later in the Dallas Morning News Letters to the Editor:

Thankfully, neither I nor the General Assembly have the authority to speak for the Presbyterian Church, USA — we can speak to it. The authority that does speak for the Presbyterian Church, USA is our Book of Confessions — a collection of orthodox, evangelical and Reformed faith statements based upon the Word of God — that unequivocally declares that Jesus Christ is the only path to salvation.

Cornering Arafat

The Jerusalem Post, Editorial

Since Arafat declared a cease-fire, the easiest thing to stop — the vicious incitement over official Palestinian airwaves — continues almost unabated. On June 8, Palestinian television broadcast a sermon by Sheikh Ibrahim Madhi calling for suicide bombings: “Blessings to whoever put a belt of explosives on his body or on his sons’ and plunged into the midst of the Jews, crying ‘praise to Allah.’” [translation by Middle East Media Research Institute].

The truth is that, even if Arafat were to stop broadcasting such incitement, shut down the terrorism, and round up Islamicist militants as he did in 1996, it is not clear what basis for discussion there is with this man. At this point, offering what Arafat turned down at Camp David and Taba would be out of the question, both because a price must be paid for violence and because such extreme territorial concessions were based on a level of trust that no longer exists. It would also make no sense to return to Oslo’s salami tactics of buying short periods of quiet with territorial withdrawals.

For now, however, the Sharon government has backed Arafat into a corner, because he can no longer shift the responsibility for the violence on to anyone else. It is critical that Israel, the US, and Europe not let Arafat out of his corner until absolute quiet ensues for some time. Arafat will try to argue that he cannot bring the violence down to zero without Israeli concessions. This is nonsense: What he really means is that he has not decided to end the violence completely, or he is unwilling to make the arrests necessary to do so.

The idea that a settlement freeze or any other Israeli concession will help Arafat end the Palestinians is a red herring if there ever was one. According to a just-released poll by Bir Zeit University, 71 percent of Palestinians oppose ending the Intifada in exchange for a settlement freeze. The same poll found that 74 percent of Palestinians support suicide bombings against “civilians in Israeli cities” and 62 percent support “military training” of children in summer camps.

The lesson from these shocking figures is that peace with the Palestinians cannot be bought by throwing them diplomatic bones; it must be won by closing off all other alternatives. The process of lowering Palestinian expectations and proving that violence fails will be a long one. Refusing to budge from the demand for absolute quiet is only the beginning. ■

Deflating Israel

By Ehud Ya’ari, The Jerusalem Report

The news is that the Palestinian Authority has started taking a public stance for the first time in favor of suicide bombings. Full military funerals have been given to the bombers who recently exploded themselves at Netzarim, Haderah and Netanyah — sometimes with coffins that lacked even the tattered remains of the bomber’s corpse. Arafat’s official radio and TV now refer to the suicide bombers as “martyrs.” And most significantly, the mufti of Palestine, Sheikh Ekrima Sabri, an Arafat appointee who sits on the Temple Mount, declared in his Friday sermon on May 25 in the Al-Aqsa Mosque that Islamic authorities should remember in their rulings that going to one’s death against the enemy with open eyes should in no way be considered “suicide” but, rather, a “martyr’s death.” To illustrate, Sabri cited the tale of the Muslim hero Ja’afar Ibn Abi-Taleb, who rode into the ranks of the Byzantine enemy at the battle of Mu’ta in 630 CE, after both his arms had been slashed off by swords. After death he became known as the “flying one,” for the angel’s wings Allah gave him in Paradise to replace his amputated arms. So the suicide bombers of today are going in the path of the legendary Ja’afar, whose purity of faith is above question....

Sheikh Hassan Nasrallah, the charismatic leader of Hizballah, has now come out vigorously against this line. His advice to Arafat is to stop broadcasting images of dead Palestinian children, of Israeli tanks flattening orchards, of helicopters launching missiles. In short, to stop presenting the Israelis as invincible supermen.

“A million Jews are exposed to our fire.”

What is the alternative? Nasrallah’s answer can be seen almost every evening on Hizballah’s satellite TV channel. One example: quiz shows in which the questions focus each time on a different Israeli personality played by an actor. Recently the subject was Shaul Mofaz. Throughout the quiz — while viewers from all over the Arab world phoned in with solutions to the riddles — “Mofaz” hid behind his stand, bursting out crying and making a general fool of himself. In another satirical program filmed meters away from the Israeli-Lebanese border, a few clowns pretended to storm the fence while on the other side, a frightened virtual Sharon sought refuge under the bed in a house on the Israeli side. Instead of showing Israeli artillery pointing menacingly at Lebanon, they make a point of inviting crews to film their Katyusha and anti-tank rocket launchers that sit, uncamouflaged, opposite the communities of the Galilee. “A million Jews are exposed to our fire,” boasts Nasrallah. ■

Letters to Zola

Dear Zola,

Although I share your love for Israel and your dismay over media distortions of the situation there, I am finding it increasingly difficult to accept your rather blithe reassurances that tourists there are still “perfectly safe.” I have just received a message from a friend of mine, a ten-year Jerusalem resident, asking me to postpone my summer visit with her because, according to her, the city has become so dangerous. She describes Jerusalem as “a city under siege,” where “we barely leave our neighborhood, we avoid going to the center of the city, the mall, the market, the zoo, the theatre,” and “the Old City is no longer a place to visit peacefully.” In addition to my friend’s view of the situation there, I understand that several summer archaeological digs have been cancelled.

“a city under seige”

I do not receive the kind of daily reports that you get, and it has been four years since my last visit to Israel. Still, I wonder if perhaps your love for Israel and your distrust of the media are hindering your acknowledgement of the grave dangers currently developing there. After all, your advertised video special Is This the End...Or Just the Beginning? “discusses Biblical and secular implications of a coming cataclysm.”

RN

Dear RN,

While I do love Israel and I do distrust the media, my advice about touring is gained from experience and eye-witness evidence. I really don’t know what your friend is talking about. Please compare my wife’s impression of the city (Note from Zola, page 5,) as of a week before this writing. An archaeological dig is included in her impressions. And as for Is this the End...or Just the Beginning, know that the Tribulation period will follow the Rapture, and we won’t be on earth for those catastrophes. — Zola

Dear Zola,

I have been using R.B. Theime, Jr., ministry teaching model and material for some time. Suddenly, while using his booklet “Victorious Proclamation,” on page 37, #2a “Israel is replaced by the church in the Church Age (Eph. 1:22) ...and by the 144,000 Jews in the Tribulation (Rev. 7:4).” How does this reconcile with the rest of his apparent accurate methodology? PJP

Dear PJP,

Unless this is quoted sharply out of context, Theime has made a popular but grave mistake. Not only is Israel not replaced by the Church in the Church Age (“Hath God cast away his people? God forbid.” Rom. 11:1a), but the 144,000 Jews are identified as Israelis by tribe. How Israelis can replace Israel is unclear to me, and shows what sort of gibberish one gets into trying to improvise on a doctrine false in the first place.

— Zola

“you are shooting yourself in the foot”

Dear Zola,

I appreciate what you are doing and thank you for what you think is good. But the truth, I am afraid, is that you are shooting yourself in the foot.

You will not be satisfied until all those poor Christians in the Holy Land are wiped out and all the sacred places destroyed. They are there for you too!

There was someone here from the Palestinian Prelate and he said those Pilgrims that come from the U.S. are causing them much suffering. Jesus said the Kingdom is within you. The Catholic Church is very Jewish, go to a Mass and see for yourself. Scott Hahn says that is part of the revelation from the Bible. Check it out for yourself. Mary is our Jewish Mother in Heaven. Someone said, “Who are the Anti-Christ? Probably those Jewish High Priests that have fought or rejected Christ for 2,000 years.” When the Pope was there the Israelites kept the Christian Catholics from going there and kept them from attending the Church in Jerusalem for Christmas and Easter, or from worship in general. And they were the Faithful that stayed there since Jesus’ time. God is not pleased with animal blood sacrifices — he wants our hearts.

Not the Jews from Israel but the Pilgrim tourists — they are not Christian. They don’t go to any of those churches to pray that were built over the sacred places — if they hadn’t, they would be covered by mosques — but just do sightseeing. They are supporting the European Zionist expansion movement, by also denying the Pilgrims’ access to Palestinian hotels and businesses, taking away their livelihood — forcing them to immigrate and bringing in Russian Jews that are not Christian.

When Jesus comes back will He find the Faithful? No — you wiped them all out. Maybe if these are so then the Jews will be given credit for proclaiming the Gospel, which they refused to accept. Until then and they want to get credit for it.

Dear Zola, your plan is out and God knows everything that goes on because there are plenty of Saints in Heaven to testify to that. Even the magazine Israel Today said the Palestinians have been badly treated by the Israeli government. Zola, I like to hear the truth from both sides of the problem; you do not live over there so you don't know what it's like. Neither do I — that is why I like to hear both sides. I still love you and God bless you!

P.S. The Pope is your Shepherd, too — if you like it or not!

"Anti-Jewish attitudes"

Dear MT,

Your letter and the publications you enclosed are so hostile to the Chosen People that I wonder why you say that you love me. Believe me, I am used to Catholic anti-Jewish attitudes, which I have seen since I was a little child, and I know that they exist in the Holy Land. If Mary is indeed your Jewish Mother in Heaven, all I can tell you is, "What would your mother say?!" — Zola

To Zola Levitt,

You might not be Jewish. There are true Jews and they deserve to be called God's Chosen People. The rest of them are just mockers. They only glorified God so they could be called better Gentiles. Please print this and talk about it in your newsletter and TV show.

IF

P.S. You probably don't like the Catholic Church because in the Church we're all equal.

Dear IF,

Are you really all equal in the Catholic Church? What about the fellows who get to wear the bright red costumes? And how about the king over there in the palace in Rome? Isn't he higher than you? After all, there are reverend fellows, and more-reverend fellows, and most-high-reverend fellows, to my knowledge, and even some fellows more reverend than those. Why don't you try a

Bible-teaching church, and see if the believers are not really more equal there. — Zola

Dear Zola,

When I hear the expression "Christ killers," or "they killed our Lord" — do these people realize the alternative?

Apparently they would prefer that Jesus live to a ripe old age — say 100 years — and die very quietly in bed. Then what? If His death was planned by God, could anything or anyone have changed it? Didn't Jesus say, "Let Thy Will be done?" What kind of preaching did the clergy of Christianity do all the years up to this time?

I like the things you say. I like reading the things you send to me. Keep up the good work. I have friends in High Places and I will put in a good word for you.

Thanks.

— JW

"Didn't Jesus say, 'Let Thy Will be done?'"

Dear JW,

Thank you for speaking to your Friend in high places on my behalf. Indeed our Lord pointed out, "To this end was I born" (Jn. 18:37b). The expression "Christ killers" comes from the sort of people who say, "The rest of them are just mockers," or refer to the Chosen People as "the European Zionist expansion movement," as in the preceding letters. — Zola

Email to ZLM Staff on June 12 from our Kibbutz tour in Israel —

Very peaceful. The passengers cannot believe this is the Israel of CNN. They are so mad at the media. Most of them want to stay here. One lady said she was sending a postcard saying, "sell everything, send money. We're staying." It is such a blessing to see!

Movie Stars Contribute to Co-existence

Israel Today

Paul Newman is among the VIPs who donated $4 million to finance a holiday camp in the Galilee for seriously ill children. The Nahar Ha'Yarden camp, to be located in the Lavi forest by the Sea of Galilee, will include a sports center, swimming pool, bridle paths, activity center and other facilities. Jewish, Christian and Moslem children from Israel and neighboring Arab countries will be able to enjoy a one-week holiday there, along with their parents and siblings. ■

Staff Suggestion Memo to Mark Levitt, General Manager:

Yesterday I wrote an explanation letter to one of our elderly subscribers after receiving a note from her literally pleading for us not to “ever, ever” take her off the mailing list. She is in her eighties and unable any longer to contribute. This is typical of letters we get from our elderly, long-time supporters. Most of them are a little panicked at being dropped from Zola’s mailing list, and reassure us that the Levitt Letter it is a bright spot in their lives that they also share with others. Perhaps the explanation of the purge system in the letter below would be helpful to many of our good friends and supporters. — D

Dear M,

We received your recent note asking that you not be removed from the mailing list ever. We certainly want you to know that it is our blessing to send Zola’s newsletters to you, but let me make a brief explanation of how our computerized mailing list works.

From time to time, our mailing lists are purged of accounts that have been “inactive” for over a year. By “inactive” I mean that although we have sent the usual materials, our partner has not ordered any of Zola’s materials, nor made any donations to the ministry. This is really the only way we have to gauge subscriber interest. This is the only activity from subscribers that is entered into the computer system, which in turn generates the mailing list.

The reason we purge accounts that are inactive for over a year is due to the tremendous volume of mail we send out daily. We are trying to be good stewards of our resources by not sending newsletters to people who have lost interest and no longer do more than carry our mailings from the mailbox to the garbage can!

We realize that many committed subscribers are unable to contribute or to buy materials, so we will always re-subscribe anyone who gets purged if they tell us they still desire to receive the Levitt Letter. We certainly don’t want to cut anyone off from Zola’s mailing list who wants to be included! We just have no other way to eliminate wasted mailings to those who have moved or lost interest.

When you receive the notice that we mail out asking if subscribers want to remain on Zola’s mailing list, all you need to do is fill out the card indicating your desire to remain a subscriber. We will gladly re-subscribe you. This is the best system we have found to enable us to be good stewards of the resources God has granted to this ministry.

Thank you for your prayers and support of Zola’s ministry and for the Jewish people. Keep praying for the peace of Jerusalem!

In the Lord’s service,
Zola’s Staff

“The safety of Israel and the media distortions”

Dear Zola,

At a Bible college I attended about six years ago, I became friends with a young lady whose parents are missionaries to the Jewish people. I was able to meet them when I visited Israel in 1995. Concerning the safety of Israel and the media distortions, the young lady told me that her grandparents would watch the news here in the States and see the reports of all the violence and bloodshed in Israel. They would call their children in Israel to see if they had escaped the tragedy and to see if they were harmed. The family in Israel, however, would be unaware of any incident and would have to watch or hear the outside news to find out what they were speaking of. Often it would only be a local stabbing, not politically motivated, that the media distorted into more Israeli violence and murder. If someone gets stabbed in a bad part of Dallas, the people of Tulsa, Oklahoma, do not stay indoors and fear for their lives, as the media tries to tell us happens in Israel.

— PM

Dear Zola,

My wife and I have been appalled by some of the letters we read in your monthly newsletter — sent by so-called Christians. Their tones are not that of love, but show strong tones of hateful attack. If they are truly following Jesus and His teachings, it surely doesn’t show.

Indeed Israel is a part of End Times prophecy. If one will read their Bible, it’s so obvious that Israel is a part of End Time prophecy. What Bible are they reading?

You know, I never met you personally and probably never will here on earth, but my wife and I indeed love you with the love of Yeshua. We need to hear the truth and that’s what you for sure are giving the people. Nobody has a monopoly on God as some so-called Christians may think. We thank God we were grafted into the olive tree.

B’Shem Yeshua
In the Name of Jesus,

P & G V

P.S. We love your music tapes. The voices are so incredibly anointed. Will be ordering more. If you could, please publish our letter in your monthly paper. Our donation is small but it’s from the heart. Much love to you and your ministry.

to the Palestinian “martyrs of the Intifada” in the shape of a map of Palestine, including all the land of Israel.

The diplomats probably wonder about the “real” meaning of such maps, just as diplomats wondered what Nazis “really” meant when they spoke of the “destruction” of European Jewry.

Israel lives in a bad neighborhood. One reason it is bad is that the Palestinian people have had a long run of execrable leaders, leaders who supported Hitler in World War II, the Soviet Union during the Cold War and Saddam Hussein in the Gulf War.

Perhaps things will get better. Perhaps when a full-fledged Palestinian state exists on the West Bank, that 22nd Arab state will be the first Arab democracy. But would those who are asking Israel to bet its life on that be willing to bet theirs?

Former Prime Minister Shimon Peres, when asked if Israel could safely consent to be again, as before 1967, 10 miles wide at the waist, blandly said that Israel would still be, in effect,

40 miles deep strategically because “all the land we give back must be demilitarized.”

But although this Palestinian state does not yet fully exist, it already is militarized with at least 30,000 well-armed soldier-policemen. Will the fully emerged state accept the restrictions on its sovereignty that no other nation accepts?

It is said that the people hope vaguely but dread precisely. Modern history has provided Israelis a dread that is the premise of their statecraft: No calamity is impossible.

So while the “international community” will continue to criticize Israel for the provocations inherent in its existence, Israel’s riposte will be Golda Meir’s words: Jews are used to collective eulogies, but Israel will not die so that the world will speak well of it. ■

Israel compared to Dallas

The odd terrorist action in Israel is so celebrated by CNN and company that we forget how things are in the United States. Here’s a letter (edited for space) from my hometown newspaper. Believe me, Jerusalem was never like this! — Zola

“Old East Dallas”

Recently a 2-year-old boy in his grandmothers’ home a few blocks away—was shot and killed in what is believed to be a random shooting. And anyone who has lived very long in Old East Dallas is familiar with the borderline psychotics who get roaring drunk and drive around shooting at people’s homes just for the heck of it.

A few such assaults I recorded in my journal.... In all those shooting sprees, few houses in our block escaped being shot at....we are rather used to that, and don’t bother to report it. However, Sunday, May 13, at 2 a.m., weirdos were firing what sounded like a machine gun! Even a relative, who worked as a police officer in the past, sprang into action as that gun riddled several homes so violently that all our doors and windows rattled. It was like World War III had begun; and neighbors ran outside, and/or called the police, but the gunmen were not apprehended.

I’m a native Chicagoan and...even though many big-time Mafia gangsters lived in our middle-class neighborhood....I recall hearing about only two or three burglaries, one murder involving a burglar, and no drive-by shootings, or hold-ups....and God help anyone who molested a little kid!

HEBREW LESSON

BY JOHN J. PARSONS

יום אִירָא אֲנִי אֵלֶיךָ אֶבְטָח

In the day I am afraid, I will trust in thee.

(Psalm 56:3)

טַח	אֶבְ	אֵלֶיךָ	אֲנִי	אִירָא	יום
(2)	(1)	(3)	(2)	(1)	(1)
takh	év'	kha léy	äh	rah eey	yohm
I will trust		in you	I	I am afraid	day

Hebraic Insight

In this verse, the Hebrew word for trust בָּטַח [batakh] expresses a sense of well-being and security, which results from placing your confidence in the God of Israel (in the Septuagint, the Greek word ἐλπίζω is consistently rendered as a personal relying upon or confiding in God). In other words, trust is not a passive or merely cognitive state, but involves a personal decision — an act of the will — to experience security and safety in the person and character of God. In the day when you are feeling afraid, in the hour when anxiety threatens to overwhelm you, cast your cares upon the gracious and dependable God of Israel, and the peace of God shall be your well-being and security (1 Pet. 5:7, Phil. 4:7).

Calling Evil “Good” and Good “Evil”

Some United Methodist readers have chastised me when I pointed out how supportive their church is of the Palestinians and how critical of Israel. The following anti-Semitism is drawn from the “Resolution on the Middle East: Council of Bishops, United Methodist Church” (April 29-May 4, 2001). — Zola

We therefore call upon the United States government through the Congress, to use all measures possible, including the cutting off of all funding to the Israeli government, to insure that the following conditions are met:

1. All human rights violations cease
2. Building of roads for the purpose of dividing the Palestinians lands through the West Bank and Gaza cease.
3. No more Jewish settlements are built in occupied territories
4. All home demolitions cease.

Furthermore, we call upon all United Methodists to become educated on the issues, pray for all people of the region, and provide financial support to the Palestinian people through contributions to the General Board of Global Ministries.

And Furthermore, we call upon all United Methodist communities and churches to invite religious leaders (Jewish, Christians, and Muslim) into conversations in order to foster deeper understanding of the issues.

Hath God cast away His people? God forbid (Romans 11:1).

Furred & Feathered Frequent Flyers

Israel Today

Israel’s El Al airlines announced a frequent flyer offer they hope will draw more passengers than the competition. Dogs, cats and birds logging three round-trip flights will receive a fourth flight free, as long as it takes place within three years. A round-trip flight from the United States to Israel costs pet owners between $89 and $98. ■

Quote – Unquote

“If I had 20 children, I would send them to commit suicide in Israel and kill Israelis.” Hassan Hotari, father of Sa’id, the suicide bomber who killed 20 Israelis outside a Tel Aviv nightclub. The Jerusalem Report

USA Today excerpt by Jack Kelly:

The Hotaris are preparing for a party to celebrate the killing of 21 Israelis this month by their son, a suicide bomber. Neighbors hang pictures in the shapes of a heart and a bomb to display on their front doors. “I am very happy and proud of what my son did and, frankly, am a bit jealous,” says Hassan Hotari, 54, father of the young man who carried out the attack June 1 outside a disco in Tel Aviv. It was Israel’s worst suicide bombing in nearly four years. “I wish I had done [the bombing]. My son has fulfilled the Prophet’s [Mohammed’s] wishes. He has become a hero! Tell me, what more could a father ask?”

“Arafat isn’t the problem. The Palestinian people is the problem.” Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, at a Labor party gathering. THE JERUSALEM REPORT

Personally, I think it is the other way around, but then, I generally disagree with “peace process” fan and former Prime Minister Shimon Peres.

— Zola

Many of the passengers expressed that their families and friends were concerned for our safety. I just smiled and said that they would see how it really is in Israel. Sure enough, our trip through the Holy Land was peaceful. I knew they would love it. It was a pilgrim's delight.

We saw very few other tourists — one group of about 40 from Colorado, a group of about 75 on the plane with us from Oklahoma, and us. That is about all we saw. The weather in Jerusalem was perfect, about 70 degrees and sunny. At many sites we were the only bus and tourists there. We had plenty of time for teaching, and to look at the site. It was so peaceful and beautiful. We felt we had been rewarded for coming. We all kept quoting Genesis 12:3, "I will bless them that bless thee and curse them that curse thee." We definitely felt blessed.

The archaeological dig at Maresha was a highlight. We found lamps, pottery, and shards with Greek writing, and even whole jugs. Some of the pieces will go in a museum!

The group was so surprised at how peaceful it was in Jerusalem and the Galilee. To be on the Sea of Galilee where Jesus taught was something we will all remember whenever we read our Bibles. The only violence we ever saw was on television. Everyone in the group kept saying how peaceful it was. I had dinner with a friend of mine who had a group in Israel. They too could not believe the peacefulness of Israel. As we continued to tour the Jewish Quarter, Yad Vashem, Gethsemane, the Upper Room, and the Western Wall in Jerusalem, I saw in our pilgrims' eyes and hearts the love of Israel and the anger at the media that try to ruin a land. We all agreed that it was prophecy and Satan at work and in the end we all knew that God would be the winner.

"The only violence we ever saw was on television."

Another highlight was the drive in the Golan. What majestic beauty. As we moved on to the Galilee and experienced a boat ride on the Sea of Galilee, Mount of Beatitudes, and the Jordan River baptism, we knew we did not want to leave what had become our home. The farewell dinner was so sad. We did not want to go and yet we all knew we had to go back and tell everyone we knew that Israel is safe! Our group really saw the power of the media trying to destroy a land for the sake of ratings. They also wondered what else the media had distorted.

As we prayed for the peace of Jerusalem, we were already making plans to meet again in Israel soon. — Sandra

Please see the tour schedule on our bulletin board page. I hope you can attend. The tours are just wonderful these days, in a nearly empty land.

Despite the fact that Jerusalem is perfectly peaceful, I always ask you, with the Psalmist, to "pray for the peace of Jerusalem."

Your messenger,

Dear P & G V,

Thanks for the heartening remarks. The love of Yeshua shines through you. As for our singers, they are ordinary church soloists from around town. The anointing they have is very real, and I'm not surprised that you can perceive it.

— Zola

Dear Zola,

Honestly, I really got tired of all the articles you had in the Levitt Letter about Replacement Theology. Yet, I did read the articles, thinking, all the time I will not need this information. I am just a member of a small country church in the "Bible Belt." Oh! Was I ever wrong! Our minister at our church resigned. My husband was elected chairman of the pulpit committee. The first application he received from a candidate stated, "I believe that the Church is the New Israel." I was shocked. I gathered all the back issues of the Letter Letter I had, searched your web site, and was able to give my husband the information in a nutshell — with Bible references about Israel and the Church.

Thank you,

Please do not print my name since the selection of a new minister is not complete. — GS

Dear GS,

I think you'd be amazed at the number of pastors who have fallen into this error these days. My book Broken Branches was written specifically for such a church leader, who was insulted when invited to a Passover Seder by one of his flock! — Zola

CONCLUSION: Two Witnesses in Israel

(Part Three of Three)
By Todd Baker, ThM

In Galilee, the Lord gave us several witnessing opportunities. The people there were generally receptive, grateful, and some very moved as we told them how God is bound to the Jewish people through the eternal, immutable and unconditional covenants (namely, the Abrahamic, Davidic, and New Covenants).

One evening Kevin and I noticed an elderly woman with a walking cane badly limping along in pain. We went back down the stairs and greeted her. Her name was Naomi and she had multiple sclerosis. Kevin gave his personal testimony about the intense struggle he and his wife Leighanne went through during her time of illness. Through it all, he told Naomi, God sustained and strengthened them, transforming a tragedy into a triumph.

We told her the only way that could have happened is the fact that Y'shua the Messiah came and took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses (Is. 53:4; Matt 8:17). We further told her that He defeated death by His resurrection and that He personally wanted to carry the heavy load of her crippling disease upon His shoulders (Matt 11:28-30). She was moved to tears. We ended up giving her a Messianic Jewish Gospel tract and a Hebrew New Testament, with assurances of keeping her in our prayers.

But the Lord saved His best for last. While on the plane coming back to the States, the Lord gave us the opportunity to share with a Russian Jewish lady from New York City. Her name was Nadia. She had stayed in Jerusalem for three weeks visiting her relatives on her first trip to the Holy Land. We shared with her how God sent us over there to comfort and encourage the Jewish people with the good news of Y'shua the Messiah.

Surprisingly, she responded by telling us that an Israeli tour guide who was a Messianic Jew said the same things to her in Jerusalem. We went over the Gospel with her via a Messianic Jewish tract. After she carefully read it we asked if she would like to receive Y'shua the Jewish Messiah in her heart. She gladly prayed with us and was born again on the spot!

After she did this she exclaimed with visible relief and joy on her face, "Now I feel such a peace." Yes, that is because the Prince of Peace lives in Nadia now. We cannot thank the Lord, Zola, and the Shalom, Shalom congregation enough for allowing us the inestimable privilege of sharing the Gospel of Y'shua the Messiah with His Chosen People.

We do not desire this to be a one-time event. Therefore we humbly ask for the continued support (in prayer and finances) from believers all over that we may endeavor to go twice a year to Israel to boldly and lovingly share the Gospel "to the Jew first and then to the Gentile." If we as a Church do not evangelize the Jewish people then we simply fail to carry out the Great Commission properly. The heart of every born-again believer should be that Jews, the brethren of Jesus, come to faith in Y'shua as Messiah here and now. This was Paul's heart cry (Rom. 10:1-3), for it is the heart cry of God concerning the Jews and Jerusalem (Matt. 23:37).

Todd and Kevin are planning a return mission trip to Israel in September or October. Please mark your contributions, "To the Jew first." This fund will send them. (Rom. 10:15) ■

The "Battle" is the Lord's

We got a nice surprise today when an old friend dropped by the office to pick up a few copies of Battles with Seminaries for a Men's Bible study class he is teaching. An excellent Bible teacher, who has taught many times at Shalom, Shalom congregation, our friend brought some very interesting and exciting news concerning the church he attends and where Dr. Darrell Bock also serves as an elder. Bock is the co-author of a Progressive Dispensationalism book and is one of the faculty we confronted at Dallas Theological Seminary. It seems our friend went to the church leaders and told them he was going to resign his membership because of the doctrines being taught. So, they told him that he was free to teach in the men's class whatever he chose. Well, this is where Battles with Seminaries comes in because he chose to take on the errors of Progressive Dispensationalism. We know this man to be a fine Bible-based teacher, both entertaining and thorough. This is exactly the spin-off from our book that we hoped to see! — Zola
